Pharmaceutical companies typically spend 25% to 30% of their annual turnover on sales and marketing activities - which is often the single largest expense. Experience has shown that much of this investment is sub-optimal and does not drive desired business results. With a highly competitive market and the pressure on to do more with less, Pharma companies must have their eyes open to all aspects of field performance.

This is not an issue with data. Pharma companies are drowning in commercial data. The challenge is in gaining insightful reporting from this data to make well informed sales and marketing decisions.

A modern field reporting solution needs to ingest, validate and integrate all relevant data sources, and deliver timely insights to every corner of the business. Whether to a Sales Rep, District or Regional Manager, Home Office or Sales VP – everyone should be leveraging insightful reporting to make well informed business decisions.

Insightful decision making has a real impact on the bottom line. A recent Accenture study highlighted up to 5% increase in revenue and profitability through better data-driven decisions.
